UAC

Educational Access Scheme

EAS helps UAC applicants who have encountered significant educational challenges.

Through EAS, institutions will consider the adversities an applicant has overcome and, as a result, may make an offer of admission to a course even if the applicant's ATAR (or equivalent) falls below the specified selection rank.

Educational Access Scheme

Who can apply for EAS?

To apply for EAS, you must be able to demonstrate that, as a result of circumstances beyond your control or choosing, your studies were negatively affected during:

- Year 11 and/or Year 12
- or
- the period in which you gained the qualifications you are using to seek admission to an undergraduate course.

If you are a current Year 12 student, circumstances that arise after September are not eligible for EAS assessment, as they will not have had an impact on your Year 12 studies.

You must also be:

- a UAC undergraduate applicant
- an Australian citizen, a New Zealand citizen or a permanent resident of Australia (including a holder of an Australian permanent resident humanitarian visa).

International students cannot apply for EAS.

Elite athletes and performers: The impact of your sporting or performance commitments (eg being absent from school to train or compete or completing some or all studies by distance education due to training, practice or performance commitments) cannot be considered under EAS. To have these commitments considered, contact the institution.

How EAS works

If you're considered under EAS and your ATAR is below the required selection rank for one or more of your course preferences, institutions can increase your selection rank for those courses and make you more competitive for a place. But you are not guaranteed a place: you still have to compete against other applicants.

We cannot specify how many points will be added to your selection rank, but some institutions publish details of their EAS equity adjustments on their websites.

Automatically-generated applications

We will automatically generate an EAS application for you (ie you don't have to submit an application) if:

- the residential address (not a PO box address) you enter in your UAC undergraduate application is identified by the Australian Bureau of Statistics as being in the lowest 25% of socio-economic disadvantage in Australia (no reassessment of addresses will occur after your undergraduate application is submitted)
- you currently attend a school in Australia that is considered rural, regional or remote.

In both these cases, we'll send you a confirmation email the day after you submit your undergraduate application.

To claim additional challenging circumstances, you still need to submit an EAS application, but you don't need to include details about the circumstances covered by your automatically-generated application.

How to apply

Before starting your application, check the eligibility criteria and documents required for each EAS category: refer to pages 2 to 7 in this publication or go to uac.edu.au/eas.

- 1 From the UAC website, submit your undergraduate application.
- 2 Select 'Apply for EAS' on the undergraduate application confirmation page or log in to your completed undergraduate application and select 'EAS'.

- 3 Open the category of circumstances you wish to claim. Select the specific circumstances that apply to you and answer the follow-up questions. When you have selected all the relevant circumstances in that category, click 'Save'. Repeat for each category you wish to claim.
- 4 Acknowledge the alerts to upload documents.
- 5 Agree to the declaration and authority and submit your EAS application.
- 6 Download your confirmation of application and the document package for each of your claimed circumstances. The document package details the eligibility criteria for your claim and lists the supporting documents you need to provide.
- 7 Upload all your supporting documents to your application at least 10 working days before the undergraduate offer round in which you wish to be considered (or as advised in the key dates on the UAC website).

Your application can't be assessed until your supporting documents have been uploaded.

Commonly required documents

Applicant statement

Complete the applicant statement in your own words. Provide all the factual details requested while being as precise and specific as possible.

You have the option not to complete the applicant statement if doing so will adversely affect your wellbeing. However, it is important to note that not submitting the applicant statement may affect the assessment of your application.

Educational impact statement

An educational impact statement must be written by a responsible person (eg school principal, counsellor, year adviser, careers adviser) who can comment on the impact of your circumstances on your education. The responsible person cannot be related to you.

Medical impact statement

If you're asked to provide a medical impact statement, it must:

- be completed by a registered health professional who is treating your medical condition/disability
- not be completed by the same person who completed the educational impact statement.

Documents not in English

You must supply a copy of:

- the document in the original language
- an English translation of the document.

Your documents must be translated by:

- Multicultural NSW
(visit multicultural.nsw.gov.au) or
- a translator accredited by the National Accreditation Authority for Translators and Interpreters (NAATI). A list of NAATI-accredited translators in Australia and some overseas locations is available at naati.com.au or email infonsw@naati.com.au. Note that NAATI itself does not offer translation services.

If you do not provide the required documents, your claim may not be assessed. For detailed document requirements, go to uac.edu.au/eas-applications.
